

Dear FCC,

Please do not dilute the New Jersey "Do Not Call" law. Leave the law as it stands now. It is the individual phone owners right to decide who to let into their own home, not the telemarketers. Diluting the law would permit intrusive, unsolicited calls which are bothersome and downright obnoxious. It is the right of New Jerseyans to enact laws such as this when they are in compliance with the Constitution. The federal law is good, but we feel that we have improved upon it for our own benefit.

Thank-you.

Michael Strassberg